BEAR RIVER MIGRATORY BIRD REFUGE VISITOR CENTER ACT

DECEMBER 4, 2001.—Committed to the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union and ordered to be printed

Mr. HANSEN, from the Committee on Resources, submitted the following

R E P O R T

[To accompany H.R. 3322]

[Including cost estimate of the Congressional Budget Office]

The Committee on Resources, to whom was referred the bill (H.R. 3322) to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to construct an education and administrative center at the Bear River Migratory Bird Refuge in Box Elder County, Utah, having considered the same, report favorably thereon without amendment and recommend that the bill do pass.

PURPOSE OF THE BILL

The purpose of H.R. 3322 is to authorize the Secretary of the Interior to construct an education and administrative center at the Bear River Migratory Bird Refuge in Box Elder County, Utah.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

The Bear River marshes of the northern portion of the Great Salt Lake in Utah have been a waterfowl oasis and an important inland waterfowl flyway for centuries. After decades of human encroachment and repeated outbreaks of waterfowl botulism, Congress moved to protect these marshes by creating the Bear River Migratory Bird Refuge in 1928. Devastating floods in 1983–85 virtually destroyed the Refuge, as dikes were breached and salt water from the Great Salt Lake flooded the freshwater marshes. The Refuge's newly constructed visitor facilities, roads and administrative buildings were also destroyed. Since that time, there have been no visitor facilities at the Refuge.

Once the waters of the Great Salt Lake receded in 1989, employees and volunteers worked to restore habitat destroyed by the floods and improve water management through an extensive reconstruction of dikes and waterways. Additional lands adjacent to the Refuge have also been acquired. However, the Refuge still lacks a functional education and administrative center.

Since 1995, Congress had appropriated almost $7.5 million for the construction of a visitor center and administrative facility at the Bear River Migratory Bird Refuge. In addition, non-profit groups such as the Friends of the Bear River Refuge and the local communities have raised $1.5 million towards the construction of an education center. H.R. 3322 provides an authorization of $11 million for the construction of an education center and administrative facility and limits the matching contribution requirement from private sources to no more than $1.5 million.

COMMITTEE ACTION

H.R. 3322 was introduced on November 16, 2001, by Congressman James V. Hansen (R–UT). The bill was referred to the Committee on Resources. On November 28, 2001, the Resources Committee met to consider the bill. No amendments were offered and the bill was ordered favorably reported to the House of Representatives by unanimous consent.

2. Congressional Budget Act. As required by clause 3(c)(2) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives and section 308(a) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, this bill does not contain any new budget authority, spending authority, credit authority, or an increase or decrease in revenues or tax expenditures.

H.R. 3322—Bear River Migratory Bird Refuge Visitor Center Act

H.R. 3322 would direct the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS) to build an education and administrative center at the Bear River Migratory Bird Refuge in Utah. The bill would authorize the appropriation of $11 million for this purpose. Section 5 of the bill would prohibit the USFWS from requiring nonfederal contributors to provide more than $1.5 million for the project.

The construction project authorized by H.R. 3322 is already being carried out by the USFWS under existing statutory authority. To date, about $7.5 million has been appropriated for this purpose, including $1 million for fiscal year 2002. CBO estimates that the USFWS would spend an additional $3.5 million for the center as a result of this legislation, assuming appropriation of that amount. Based on information provided by the USFWS, CBO expects local participants will spend about $1.5 million to help complete the project.

H.R. 3322 would not affect direct spending or receipts; therefore, pay-as-you-go procedures would not apply. The bill contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act and would impose no costs on state, local, or tribal governments.

The CBO staff contact for this estimate is Deborah Reis. The estimate was approved by Robert A. Sunshine, Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

COMPLIANCE WITH PUBLIC LAW 104–4

This bill contains no unfunded mandates.

PREEMPTION OF STATE, LOCAL, OR TRIBAL LAW

This bill is not intended to preempt any State, local, or tribal law.

CHANGES IN EXISTING LAW

If enacted, this bill would make no changes in existing law.
