OPENING EXHIBITION

Alexandre-Louis-Marie Charpentier (1856–1909)

August 6, 2006–January 28, 2007
West Building, Ground Floor

Although Alexandre-Louis-Marie Charpentier enjoyed great success at the end of the nineteenth century as a medalist and relief sculptor, his work has only recently been rediscovered by museums and collectors. An overview of his prolific career, this exhibition is the first devoted to him since his death in 1909 and draws from the largest private collection of his art.

A versatile and largely self-taught artist, Charpentier experimented with a variety of materials including bronze, silver, pewter, embossed leather and paper, terracotta, plaster, and pâte de verre (molded glass). The works shown range from a crumb brush to the artist's self-portrait bust, from intimate miniature portraits of children, to medals of public figures such as the novelist Émile Zola.

Organized by the National Gallery of Art, Washington.

OPENING EXHIBITION

Henri Rousseau: Jungles in Paris

July 16–October 15, 2006
East Building Mezzanine

The first major American retrospective of work by enigmatic French painter Henri Rousseau (1844–1910) in over twenty years includes more than fifty paintings such as The Hungry Lion Throws Itself on the Antelope (1905), The Dream (1910), and Tropical Forest with Monkeys (1910). The display of Rousseau's fantasy landscapes, depicting a seductive and terrifying faraway world, alongside the artist's paintings of his homeland France will reveal how both groups of paintings reflect the fears and desires of a new modern era.

A poor, low-ranking customs agent, Rousseau was a self-taught painter who harbored dreams of fame in the Academy. During his lifetime his work was ridiculed by the public and rejected by traditionalists. Ultimately, however, it was acclaimed by early twentieth-century avant-garde artists including Pablo Picasso and the surrealists.

The painter of exotic locales never left France; Rousseau's jungles are fantasies of a city dweller inspired by a wide variety of sources, on view in the exhibition, including a taxidermic specimen from a nineteenth-century French zoo, life-size bronze sculptures, and print reproductions.

Organized by the National Gallery of Art, Washington, in association with Tate Modern, London, and the Réunion des musées nationaux and Musée d'Orsay, Paris.

The exhibition is sponsored in part by the National Automobile Dealers Association.

The exhibition is supported by an indemnity from the Federal Council on the Arts and the Humanities.

Catalogue: hardcover, $50; softcover, $35

Rousseau Film

A thirty-minute film, Henri Rousseau: Jungles in Paris, narrated by Kevin Kline, has been produced by the National Gallery of Art for this exhibition. The film considers Rousseau's jungle paintings as part of the French fascination with the exotic in the later nineteenth century during the nation's colonial expansion. The film features archival film and photos as well as new footage of Rousseau's Parisian "jungles": the parks, zoos, and greenhouses that fueled his imagination. A short version screens continuously in a theater adjacent to the exhibition. The full-length film will be available for sale in the Gallery Shops.

CONTINUING EXHIBITION

Bellini, Giorgione, Titian, and the Renaissance of Venetian Painting

Through September 17, 2006
West Building, Main Floor

The National Gallery of Art is the only American venue for a major new international exhibition of more than fifty masterpieces from the most exciting phase of the Renaissance in Venice. The exhibition explores relationships among Giovanni Bellini, Giorgione, Titian, and other artists, emphasizing their innovative treatments of new pictorial themes such as the pastoral landscape and revealing what modern conservation science has discovered about their techniques.

Giovanni Bellini, Lady with a Mirror, 1515. Kunsthistorisches Museum, Gemäldegalerie, Vienna

Among the most admired masterworks of the Renaissance, Titian's Pastoral Concert ("Concert Champêtre") (c. 1510), is being lent by the Louvre to the United States for the first time. The exhibition also features significant loans from major European museums such as The National Gallery, London; the Museo del Prado, Madrid; and the Galleria degli Uffizi, Florence.

Organized by the National Gallery of Art, Washington, and the Kunsthistorisches Museum, Vienna.

This exhibition is made possible by Bracco, an international leader in diagnostic imaging.

The exhibition is supported by an indemnity from the Federal Council on the Arts and the Humanities.

Catalogue: hardcover, $65; softcover, $45

CLOSING EXHIBITION

Charles Sheeler: Across Media

*Through August 27, 2006
East Building, Mezzanine*

This exhibition, the first to explore the relationships among photography, film, and more traditional media such as painting and drawing in the work of American modernist Charles Sheeler, features many of the artist's greatest achievements. These include striking examples from Sheeler's famous 1917 Doylestown series of photographs; the film Manhatta (1920), a collaboration between the artist and photographer Paul Strand; and his iconic images of the Ford Motor Company's River Rouge Plant Classic Landscape (1931) and American Landscape (1930).

Highlighting Sheeler's fascination with the interplay between various media is his enigmatic The Artist Looks at Nature (1943), a painted depiction of a drawing based on a photograph that will be shown alongside the very works from which it is derived. The exhibition concludes with a series of works depicting New England mills, inspired by Sheeler's experiments with photomontage in the 1940s and 1950s.

Organized by the National Gallery of Art, Washington.

The exhibition is made possible by the generous support of Altria Group, Inc.

Catalogue: hardcover, $45

CONTINUING EXHIBITION

Master Drawings from the Woodner Collections

*Through October 1, 2006
West Building, Ground Floor*

Ian Woodner (1903–1990) formed one of the foremost private collections of old master and modern drawings in the United States. In 1991 Woodner's daughters, Dian and Andrea, placed the core drawings of the collection at the Gallery, to memorialize their father's achievement as a collector. This exhibition, celebrating the fifteenth anniversary of the arrival of the Woodner drawings at the Gallery, honors the ongoing generosity of Dian and Andrea Woodner, who have donated a total of one hundred drawings from their father's collection.

Spanning more than six centuries of European draftsmanship, the show includes outstanding works by such great artists as Sandro Botticelli, Leonardo da Vinci, Albrecht Dürer, Raphael, Rembrandt van Rijn, Jean-Honoré Fragonard, Francisco de Goya, Jean-Auguste-Dominique Ingres, Edgar Degas, and Pablo Picasso.

Organized by the National Gallery of Art, Washington.

CONTINUING EXHIBITION

The Poetry of Light: Venetian Drawings from the National Gallery of Art

*Through October 1, 2006
West Building, Ground Floor*

Some 134 works from the Gallery's collection reveal Venice as the city of origin for some of the finest artists in history. The exhibition features drawings by Andrea Mantegna, Jacopo Bellini, Vittore Carpaccio, Giorgione, Lorenzo Lotto, and Titian. One of the earliest surviving European drawings in colored chalks, by Jacopo Bassano, and excellent works by Veronese, Jacopo Tintoretto, and Paolo Farinati highlight the later sixteenth-century section.

The second great flowering of Venetian drawings, in the eighteenth century, is seen in outstanding works by Giovanni Battista Piazzetta, Giovanni Battista Tiepolo, Marco Ricci, Canaletto, and Francesco Guardi. The exhibition ends with works that illustrate the widespread influence of Venetian art on subsequent generations by native Venetians who went abroad, such as Giovanni Battista Piranesi, and artists from other countries who flocked to Venice in the nineteenth century.

Organized by the National Gallery of Art, Washington.

CLOSING EXHIBITION

Photographic Discoveries: Recent Acquisitions

*Through July 30, 2006
West Building, Ground Floor*

Seventy works by such celebrated photographers as William Henry Fox Talbot, Eugène Atget, Alfred Stieglitz, Aleksandr Rodchenko, and Brassai that were made during the first century of the medium's history, from the early 1840s to the 1940s, are among significant new Gallery acquisitions of photographs.

Organized around the theme of discovery, the exhibition demonstrates how photographers sought to understand techniques for making pictures using this new medium, and how they came to recognize and exploit the ways in which photography infuses subjects such as portraiture, landscape, and still life with vitality and meaning.

Organized by the National Gallery of Art, Washington.

The exhibition is made possible through the generous support of the Trellis Fund and The Ryna and Melvin Cohen Family Foundation.

Summer Story Series: Discover Italy

Would you like to visit Italy this summer? Pack your imagination and travel to the National Gallery of Art! You'll meet Italian artists in children's books, investigate paintings and sculpture from Italy, and make a souvenir to document each adventure. Ride a gondola through the canals of Venice, learn how artists painted with gold, and meet a mysterious giant! Participants will receive a passport to the summer story series and a stamp for each program attended. At the end of the summer, children with three or more stamps will receive a prize!

Gaspard on Vacation

By Anne Gutman, illustrated by Georg Hallensleben
July 10 and 11; August 7 and 8

Travel to Venice with Gaspard and join his wild adventure paddling through the canals in a kayak. Afterward, examine paintings of Venice to learn more about this unique city, and decorate your own gondola.

A Boy Named Giotto

By Paolo Guarnieri
Illustrated by Bimba Landmann
July 17 and 18

Hear the story of the painter Giotto, look at fourteenth-century Italian paintings, and make your own “golden” work of art to take home.

Katie and the Mona Lisa

By James Mayhew
July 24 and 25

Meet painters Leonardo da Vinci, Raphael, and Sandro Botticelli in this story about a young girl's adventurous visit to the art museum. After hearing the story of Katie's adventure, participants will explore portraits in the Italian galleries.

The Mysterious Giant of Barletta

By Tomie DePaola
July 31 and August 1

Hear a folktale from southern Italy, investigate sculptures, and create your own sculpture to take home.

In Search of Mozart

In celebration of Mozart's 250th anniversary, the Gallery presents three screenings of this acclaimed new documentary during the first weekend of July. Filmmaker Paul Grabsky uncovered connoisseurs and specialists in many places and included eighty recordings of opera and orchestral performance. Juliet Stevenson narrates while Renée Fleming, Magdalena Kožená, Louis Langrée, Julian Rachlin, Roger Norrington, Imogen Cooper, Škampa Quartet, the Orchestra of the 18th Century, the Salzburg Camerata, as well as many other Mozart scholars and musicians, contribute their observations.

The Ister

The Ister is an extraordinary French-produced film essay inspired by Martin Heidegger's series of lectures on Friedrich Hölderlin's poem about the Danube River. Spanning a long journey from the mouth of the Danube River in Romania to the Black Forest, the film develops ideas from Heidegger's writings. However debatable the philosopher's ideas remain, his thought is still alive in the work of some of the most interesting thinkers and artists working today, including Philippe Lacoue-Labarthe, Jean-Luc Nancy, Bernard Stiegler, and filmmaker Hans-Jürgen Syberberg, who discuss Heidegger's contemporary social relevance.

Dossier: Roberto Rossellini

A compendium of home movie footage and short films brings together fragments from the life of Ingrid Bergman and Roberto Rossellini to mark the centenary of Rossellini's birth. Included are Guy Maddin's new short film My Dad Is 100 Years Old, an offbeat tribute to the famous director in which his daughter Isabella Rossellini poses as several of her father's arch-rivals from the Italian film world. The series also includes several shorts with Ingrid Bergman (Rossellini's wife)—including Santa Brigida (1952), Kort Möte Med Familjen Rossellini (1953), and Med Ingrid Bergman på Berns (1953)—from the collections of the Swedish Film Institute, plus a rare showing of Rossellini's Open City.

Cabiria

An archival restoration of Giovanni Pastrone's extraordinary 1914 epic is presented with a musical score performed live by pianist Philip Carli on July 22. Produced on a magnitude that surpassed even the works of Cecil B. DeMille—with hundreds of actors, colossal sets, and elaborate decorative schemes—this print has been meticulously restored by Museo Nazionale del Cinema in Torino and presented at the National Gallery of Art in association with the Istituto Italiano di Cultura of Washington.

Luchino Visconti and Suso Cecchi d'Amico

One of the most productive creative partnerships in film history was that between Italian screenwriter Suso Cecchi d'Amico (b. 1914) and director Luchino Visconti (1906–1976). A close personal friend and principal writer for most of Visconti's films, Cecchi d'Amico understood the famous director's passion for historical detail.

To celebrate the one-hundredth anniversary this year of Luchino Visconti's birth and Suso Cecchi d'Amico's ninety-second birthday this July, five of their films are presented during July and August. An additional work by Visconti, Death in Venice, will close the series in September as a complement to the National Gallery's current exhibition of Venetian painting. Special thanks go to the Istituto Italiano di Cultura of Washington and Cinecittà Holding, Rome.

From Vault to Screen—New Preservation from European Collections

The National Gallery's summer preservation festival this year highlights work recently completed by several major European film archives including La Cinémathèque de Toulouse, Cineteca di Bologna, and the British Film Institute. Among the titles included in the series this year are Verdun, visions d'histoire (Léon Poirier, 1929), Underground (Anthony Asquith, 1928), and a program of British transportation films from the 1950s.
