Mr. OBERSTAR, from the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, submitted the following

R E P O R T

[To accompany H.R. 429]

[Including cost estimate of the Congressional Budget Office]

The Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, to whom was referred the bill (H.R. 429) to designate the United States courthouse located at 225 Cadman Plaza East, Brooklyn, New York, as the “Hugh L. Carey United States Courthouse”, having considered the same, report favorably thereon without amendment and recommend that the bill do pass.

PURPOSE OF THE LEGISLATION

H.R. 429, Hugh L. Carey United States Courthouse, designates the courthouse located at 225 Cadman Plaza East, Brooklyn, New York, as the Hugh L. Carey United States Courthouse.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

Hugh L. Carey was born in Brooklyn, Kings County, New York, on April 11, 1919. He graduated from St. John’s College in 1949 and St. John’s Law School in 1951. Soon after, Carey was admitted to the bar in 1951 and commenced the practice of law in Brooklyn, New York. During the Second World War, he entered the United States Army as an enlisted man in the One Hundred First Cavalry, New York National Guard, serving in Europe as a Major of infantry in the One Hundred Fourth Division. He was later decorated with the Bronze Star, Croix de Guerre, and Combat Infantry Award.

After leaving the armed services, Carey went on to serve as the State chairman of the Young Democrats of New York. Carey was elected as a Democrat in the 12th Congressional district of New York to the 87th Congress and to the six succeeding Congresses, serving from January 3, 1961, until his resignation on December 31, 1974. Carey was elected the 51st governor of New York on November 5, 1974, and was re-elected to a second term in 1978. As governor he was the catalyst for the significant financial plan that averted the bankruptcy of New York City and began a sweeping program of fiscal reform and economic development to restore New York State's vitality. Governor Carey was known for his unflinching opposition to a state death penalty. He insisted that the state could protect its citizens from the fear and acts of crime without resorting to "the ultimate act of violence." He served until January 1, 1983, when Lt. Governor Mario Cuomo succeeded him.

In 1991, Governor Carey was chosen by his fellow former governors as the first chairman of the National Institute of Former Governors and was re-elected as chairman through 1993. In 1993, Governor Carey was appointed by President Clinton to the American Battle Monuments Commission to represent the United States at various ceremonies commemorating the 50th Anniversary of the end of World War II. After his extensive career in public service, Carey resumed the practice of law in New York City, where he currently resides. The former two-term New York state Governor now focuses his legal practice on municipal finance and public affairs activities using his extensive knowledge and experience in government and business matters, as well as the regulatory environment at both the federal and local levels.

In honor of Governor Carey's outstanding public service career in New York, it is both fitting and proper to designate the courthouse located on 225 Cadman Plaza in Brooklyn, New York as the "Hugh L. Carey United States Courthouse."
